

Indigenous mentorship: do you have a story to tell?

Tell the story...

Apply now for a new Indigenous mentorship in the craft of

DIGITAL STORYTELLING ONLINE JOURNALISM

Learn how to tell a story through film, words & sound.
Build skills toward an exciting career in new media.

Starts March 30, based in Warrnambool.
Full details: www.the-terrier.com.au/story
Applications close Friday March 6, 2020.

 JUDITH NEILSON
INSTITUTE
FOR JOURNALISM
& IDEAS

 The Terrier
Carol Ottmann

Learn:

Story selection and construction
Research skills
Interviewing skills
Writing and editing skills
Digital media production skills – camera, audio, lighting
Digital editing skills

How:

Guided by journalist Carol Altmann and videographer Colleen Hughson.

Six-month/24-week/120 hours mentorship.

A minimum of five contact hours per week.

Where:

Creative hub, Brophy Youth Services,
Timor St, Warrnambool.

When:

Start date the week of 30 March 2020.

Is this you?

At least 18 years of age.

Self-motivated, curious and questioning.
A keen interest in digital media production and storytelling.
Ability to complete a Certificate 4 level of education.

Apply now:

Closing date Friday 6 March 2020.

Questions? Contact us here.

Download the application form here

This mentorship has been made possible via funding from: 